DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-27, drawn to a composition comprising a volatile hydrocarbon-based solvent, a non-volatile silicone compound, and a non-volatile hydrocarbon-based oil, classified in class 424, subclass 401.
 - II. Claim 28, drawn to a method for preparing a composition, classified in class 516, subclass 23.
 - III. Claim 29, drawn to a method of use, classified in class 424, subclass 401.
 - IV. Claim 30, drawn to a method of reducing or preventing the transfer of a film or preserving the gloss of a film, classified in class 424, subclass 63.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product as claimed can be made by layering the components rather than maintaining them in contact with each other.
3. Inventions I and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, any number of products can be applied to the lips or skin.

4. Inventions I and IV are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case, other transfer resistant cosmetics are known.

5. Invention II is related to inventions III and IV as process of making and processes of using the product. Inventions III and IV are related as different processes of using the product.

6. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

7. Claims 1-30 encompass multiple independent and patentably distinct inventions. Accordingly, a requirement to provisionally elect a single independent and patentably distinct species is made as provided for in MPEP § 803.02.

8. It is considered that a Markush-type claim encompassing such species is directed to multiple independent and patentably distinct inventions since the species are so unrelated and diverse that a reference anticipating one of the species would not anticipate or render obvious the other species. Moreover, each of the stated species is considered to be patentably distinct from the others on the basis of its properties.

9. Applicant is advised that a response to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. By species is meant a single compound. Applicant must elect a single volatile hydrocarbon-based solvent, a single non-volatile silicone compound, and a single non-volatile hydrocarbon-based oil.

10. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103 of the other invention. A requirement to elect a species has been held to be tantamount to a requirement for restriction under 35 U.S.C. § 121.

11. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
